A Correction

the printer's office that I dread so much as the devil. To illustrate: in yesterday's letter I said that "this journal," referring to the Oregonian, was guilty of such and such delinquencies; but, lo and behold, when the paper appeared, it said "The Journal" was thus guilty. Really I did not know before that the devil was a republican. I knew that the republican part has much to account for and carries a fearful load at the present time, but did not imagine it was quite so bad as that.

As to "The Journal" I have nothing but the best opinion of it.
It is an honest, clean, capable paper, working to the very best of its ability for the public welfare and against the "interests," so far as these are unjust; and for the purification of the Augean political stable that it formed here in Oregon. So please make this correction at once—to beat the devil.

Another correction called for is where your paper makes me say that the Oregonian's manner are "utterly" corrupted by its evil associations, when I said only that it was "similarly" corrupted with the republican party with which it was compared. I by no means believe that either the party or the Oregonian is wholly bad, though I do think both are rapidly getting there. In fact I have admitted the power and sparkle of the latter's editorials, as well as some excellent work that it accomplishes. It has an immense power for good or evil; and if it would only show some signs of reform and work as earnestly for the interests of the whole people as it does now for the "interests" that prey upon the people—I would at once send in a year's—yes even for a life's—subscription. But so long as it persists in its present course, my constitution absolutely forbids me to indulge it only in nickle doses.

best part of town, as we have the city park and the large public school.

A RESIDENT.

Dr. Pernot did not write the article referred to. He gave the editor the information on request. The article was not a knock—it was straight goods.
The same may be said of other sections, and it will be said when those sections are up for discussion. The G-T. wants the Northwest additions to have that sewer, and so does Dr. Pernot. Both will help land that sewer. (Editorial note.)

ALBANY IS FLOSSY

The Albany Herald says Corvallis should spend that $125,000 prize-fight purse for street improvements. Normally, that suggestion would be all right, but if Corvallis finally secures the big fight there is almost a certainty that $500,000 can be secured for street purposes. The Johnsons of this city, numerous as the sands of the seashore and of no relation except to the dusky champeen, have agreed, in case their favorite relative wins, to install a Carnegie library, erect a new opera house, build that six-story hotel, put a bridge across the Willamette, put in a rival postoffice here, pave the streets, build a street car line and finally paint the town red. Red isn't exactly our color, unless it is of the sky-blue-pink variety, but any kind of paint will help, and with the various other needed conveniences promised, it is worth while to take a chance. Of course Johnson may not win, for Lafferty is a strong man, but if he can't win in Corvallis he can't hope to win at Colma or Goldfield. But, come to think about it, Albany is not far enough out of the woods yet that the Herald can point the way and crow very loud. Albany is doing well but she is still in swaddling clothes.
